ATTACK ON THE PRINCE REGENT

A London paper of the 30th Jan. gives the following particulars of the attack made upon the Prince Regent.

"On the return of the Prince Regent from the House of Lords, the crowd assembled in the streets, had increased greatly. In St James' Park, in particular the mob was immense, and they began to utter the most violent and indiscreet expressions the instant the royal carriage appeared. When the cavalry had reached the Stable yard gate, it appears that the glasses of the state carriage were broken, on both sides, almost instantly. The general impression was that stones were the missiles employed, and yet the glasses, which are of uncommon thickness, were broken as clearly as if done by a discharge from a musket or pistol.

"On the Prince Royal alighting from the state carriage at St. James's Palace, he immediately sent for Lord Sidmouth; and after waiting considerable time for the arrival of Lord Sidmouth, at St. James Palace, left it in his private carriage for Carleton House; and the refractory part of the populace having left the Park, he was then received with loud huzzas. His royal highness left his commands for Lord Sidmouth to follow him to Carleton House, where his lordship arrived shortly afterwards, as did the Duke of York, and the Duke and Dutchess of Gloucester; their royal highnesses having heard of what had happened, lost no time in repairing to Carleton house, to make enquires.

"Lord J. Murray, who attended the Regent in the state carriage as a Lord in Waiting, received a blow over his right eye from a piece of the strong plate glass.

"While the more serious occurrences just alluded to were taking place in the Park, a farce was got up in the Palace yard, for the amusement of the rabble there assembled. The actors were Mr. Hunt and Lord Cochrane. About three o'clock, the attention of the passengers in Parliament street were attracted by a man in a dirty blue coat, carrying a pole on his shoulder, to which a heavy bundle of parchment was suspended. This person was orator Hunt, for as such he speedily announced himself. About fifty boys preceded and followed him, calling out "Make way for Mr. Hunt!" and in this way the procession arrived in New Palace Yard. Here Mr. Hunt stopped, and rapping at the door of No. 7, asked if Lord Cochrane had come. Being answered in the affirmative, he deposited his burden in the passage, and presently Lord Cochrane came forth. Hunt then harrangued his followers from the step of the door, the noise was so great, that no person could hear a word, if we would except his worthy colleague, who stood behind him in humble reverence of his superior spouting faculties. A board or plank, and an arm chair, were then produced by Mr. Hunt: and upon the chair Lord Cochrane was placed. His Lordship was in this manner conveyed on the shoulders of his admirers across Palace-yard to the door of Westminster Hall, where he was set down, amid three cheers, and entered with his bundles of parchment.

Hunt, who had preceded Lord Cochrane, clearing the way, now got unbidden into the chair, and was conveyed to the place from whence they had set out. Here he made another speech to the chairman who carried him, and then entered the house. The mob then left him taking the direction of the Park."

Several persons have been arrested and examined, on suspicion of being concerned in the assault upon the Prince Regent, and one of them had been committed for trial, on the charge of high treason.

Sir Francis Burdett, in the House of Commons, on the 28th of January, gave notice, that he should on this day month submit a motion on the subject of Reform in Parliament.

The Morning Chronicle on the 7th of February announced the death of the king of France; and the Courier on the evening of the same day contradicted the news, and asserted that his Gallic Majesty was nearly restored to health.

From Niles Weekly Register.

The sudden and very numerous emigrations in the Alabama country threaten many with absolute starvation, unless they are shortly relieved by supplies from other parts.

The chief of the Caddo tribe of Indians, residing near Natchitoches, is said to be invested by the agents of Ferdinand of Spain, with the title of generalissimo of the Indians resident beyond the Arrayo Honde---specially charged to detain all travellers and suspicious persons.

The new steam boat "Chancellor Livingston," a packet between New-York and Albany, is of 500 tons burthen, and cost $110,000. Her average speed is estimated at 8 miles per hour.

Oliver Evan's steam engine, used for raising water in Philadelphia, is calculated to raise nearly 4 millions of gallons in 24 hours.

Banks.—A law has passed the legislature of New-York subjecting the banks that do not pay specie after the first June next, to pay an interest to the holders of their notes of 12 per cent.

The wilderness.—A new town, called Terre Haute, is laying out near fort Harrison, Indiana. Lots therein were sold to the amount of 21,000 dollars in one day.

The supreme court, sitting in this city, present chief justice Tilgham, and Judges Duncan and Gibson, yesterday pronounced their opinion respecting the law of the legislature of this state, commonly called the patent bankrupt act; the court unanimously declared the act valid, and incidentally they also unanimously declared the right of the court to declare laws not valid when in their opinion unconstitutional.

Aurora.

An English paper states that 14,000 persons were implicated in the conspiracy recently detected at Bordeaux.

The following very interesting article is taken from the Christian Observer, of September, 1816—"Messrs Wright and Son, surgeon aurists of Bristol, have succeeded in restoring the faculty of hearing to several persons born totally deaf and dumb. The persons having now acquired the possession of distinguishing sounds, are daily improving in the power of conversing. These gentlemen intend to receive a limited number of persons of respectability labouring under these infirmities, into an establishment in the neighborhood of that healthy situation, Clifton."

African ordeal.—The report of the select Committee of the House of Commons, on the state of British forts on the western coast of Africa, contains the following account of the mode of trial, for offences among the natives.

"Trial proceeds, for the most part upon evidence, but in particular cases the ordeal or doom is resorted to. Doom is a poisonous bark, and is thus administered with great ceremony. The accused person, or a proxy, is stripped quite naked, and seated on the ground, in a public place: a certain quantity is given, which he or she must eat: immediately after a large calabash of water is placed before the person, who drinks as much as the stomach will contain, when vomiting consequently takes place. If the doom is thrown up, the person is considered innocent, if it remains on the stomach, it is an indication of guilt, the latter seldom occurs; however, there have been some instances which have proved fatal. The idea of doom strikes such a terror in the minds of the natives, that I am of opinion very few submit to the trial who are not perfectly innocent."

PITTSBURGH

FRIDAY, APRIL 18, 1817

Much damage has been sustained by the late high water in the Kentucky river. Part of the bridge at Frankfort has been swept away by the flood; a number of ware-houses have been partly demolished; and a large quantity of tobacco, intended for exportation, has been carried off. The damage is variously estimated at from 500,000 to 1,000,000 dollars.

SOUTH AMERICA

The accounts which from time to time reach us from the Spanish American Provinces are extremely vague and unsatisfactory. A few days since we had a demi-official account, that the troops under BOLIVAR, who commands the revolutionists in Venezuella, had been defeated, cut up, and so scattered that not the smallest fear was entertained of their being able to make any further resistance.—And almost before the ink of the narrative is dry, we have another demi-official account that BOLIVAR had been completely successful. We are not ignorant that events of different aspects may rapidly succeed each other; but we confess our inability to extract the TRUTH from the mass of contradictory accounts which is constantly accumulating.—It were to be wished that some person competent to the task would undertake to give the public some accurate information of the progress of events, and of the present situation and prospects of the Patriots. Such information is not to be obtained from the crude reports furnished to masters of vessels.

FOR THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE.

OLIO.

NO. 3.

At a time, when this transmontane world appears in a great measure to have forgotten her darling passion for political disquisition, in the more fashionable employment of banking investigation; at a period when the interest usually excited by a presidential election, is entirely neutralized by the pressing necessity of new banks; at a moment when the chief magistracy of the "only free government under the sun," is almost viewed as secondary to the presidency of a board of bank directors, an humble student, who never expects to be either a bank director or president of these states, presumes to ask a corner of your paper, for those observations which may from time to time flow from his restless mind. If they can fill up a vacancy, in the dearth of more important matter, I shall have "gained my point."

As it is usual with all desultory writers, ever since the days of honest Will Honeycomb, to give, at the outset of an undertaking like this, a sketch of the path to be pursued, I must beg then, that the appellation student which I have "taken unto myself" may not alarm you with the yawn-inducing prospect of profound disquisitions, or prosing essays; I am too well aware, from the unsullied pages & unsoiled exterior of the English classics, which, it has become the rage to arrange carelessly in our drawing rooms, that this species of writing has but a sorry chance to be read. No: my studies, from which probably too presumptuously, I have dubbed myself with the name of student, are as various as the colour of the camelion. As this little animal generally harmonizes with the tints which are in its immediate vicinity, so will my communications be in unison, with the last study that occupied my mind, or with the last subject that afforded matter of conversation. As Proteus sometimes assumed the appearance of fire, and then again, if we may believe Lucian, that of water, so I may indulge at one moment in a disquisition on Madisonian or Monroite policy, and at another I may descant a little on Local morals;—I may review in one number, the lucubrations of your brother Editors of the West, and the next may be entirely devoted to an eulogy on the fair sex of our good city, who of course are the "fairest among the fair"—in short, sir, ad captandum vulgus, to please the million, a newspaper essayist, must be a kind of Caleb Quotem; must dabble a little in every thing, or as Cowper, in a different style expresses it, his productions should be

"Various; that the mind
Of desultory man, studious of change,
And pleased with novelty, may be indulged."

If I, or rather you, should be so lucky as to have readers, probably in the course of a little time, we may be honored with correspondents.—I would fain hope that the perennial dullness of our western papers does not proceed from want of talent or genius,—the dint of the desert is rich; it only requires an operating cause to elicit the spark. The OLIO, is therefore offered as the receptacle for every respectable species of composition which may be offered, reserving to my wise and discriminating self to play the censor, admit or reject, as I may deem good and meet. We shall hail with rapture the offerings of Genius, in whatever garb they may come,—critical, moral, didactic, or sarcastic, shall be equally welcome; politics, or belles lettres, poetry or prose shall be received with open arms; the votaries of Melpomene and those of Thalia, will find us friends to "both Houses." Where so wide a field is offered in so small a compass as a newspaper, will there not be found hands to cultivate in so large a circle as adorns our city? Cannot something be done to prove we have some ideas of our own, that may pass for original? Cannot the immense stream of the Ohio; cannot the sublime scenery that adorns its borders supply the fancy with materials? Will not the rising greatness of Pittsburgh stimulate the ambition of the human breast, and command us not to depend on distant journals for every thing. Let us except the article of foreign news, and look to ourselves for every other component part. We have professional youth of talents, who have leisure, and we have men of business who also have their idle moments; we are happy to notice in this latter class, a taste for science and accomplishments fast growing. With all these ingredients cannot we have a passable Olio, tolerably seasoned?

MARK MEDLEY.

ENGLISH LITERATURE.

Whatever may be said of the poverty of genius in older times, it must be allowed, that in our day, it is crowned with the most substantial wreaths of fame. A London paper states, that the sales of the "Lady of the Lake," during three months amounted to 7800*l* sterling; and "Rokeby," during a similar period, 9543*l*.—Madam D'Arblay, (formerly Miss Burney) obtained 3000 guineas for her last work, entitled the "Wanderers." The same sum was recently obtained by Lord Byron, for his 3d Canto of Childe Harold, and some other poems.

MARRIAGES IN HOLLAND.

A Boston paper contains translations from the Hamburg Correspondent, which give us amusing specimens of the way marriages, births and deaths are noticed in Holland. For instance—

"We hereby humbly acquaint our relations and friends that our marriage was solemnized on the 31 inst.

Hamburg, Nov. 6, 1816.

Anthony Christian Frederick Orth.
Margaretta Orth, late widow of F. W. Sackse formerly Schlichting.

At the same time I would humbly give notice to my honored friends and acquaintances that the wine selling business of the late F. W. Sackse will be henceforth carried on by me on my own account at No. 35 Horse Market, and I shall endeavor to recommend myself by my diligence and the excellence of my merchandize.

Anthony Christian Frederick Orth."

THE CURRENCY.

We know not how the good people in other parts of the state are situated, as respects MONEY: but here, he is the most fortunate who has the least to do with it. Such a variety of trash has been in circulation for a few months past—such a flood of paper has been issued to accommodate the public, without any intention of redeeming it—that very few will be so lucky as to get clear of their rags without loss, let them play the game of "Bucks's alive" as dexterously as they may. The bubbles which have risen around us, are bursting, and experience is teaching us a lesson which we refused to learn in any other school.

Canton Bank—The public impression is favorable to the notes of this bank. Its directors are deemed men of honour and probity. It seems to want nothing but a charter, to render its notes more current than some of those that have one.

Owl Creek—Not worth a tinker's...blessing! These hideous birds of night continue to hoot in some dark corners of the state—but have ceased their music here. The public have been impatiently waiting for the stockholders to say a few words in defence of their paper, or make some promise to redeem it, but in vain. The credit of these notes has long been destroyed, and the reputation of the directors, as men of honour and honesty, bids fair to share the same fate.

Virginia Saline.—The saline qualities of those notes have not been sufficient to preserve their credit. The late bank law of Virginia, however may do something towards it.

Parkersburgh or Western Bank of Virginia—sometimes called the Saddlebags bank, having been carried from Pittsburgh to Parkersburgh in a pair of saddlebags—at par with Owl creek!

Perrygopolis.—The Bank-regulating committee at Pittsburgh a short time since told us that these notes would purchase glass bottles! (a new kind of bank stock, truly!!)—but it is feared the ware is broken, as their notes are, if possible, a peg lower than those of Owl creek.

Mansfield and New Philadelphia Banks.—Notes very scarce. Whether this is owing to the difficulty of getting them into circulation, or the prudence of the directors is not known.

Granville.—There are frequent disputes whether this is a chartered bank or not.—Be this as it may, a general confidence is given to its paper, except at the "unauthorised" banks, and land offices. It appears, however, that in the lower part of the state, it is placed on the same footing with those of Canton and New Salem.

Shin Plasters—Under this appropriate term may be included all the ragged trash issued by bridge, turnpike and manufacturing companies—by city and borough authorities—by merchants, tavern-keepers, barbers and shoe-blacks—from three cents upwards. There is, no doubt, great difference in the value of these tickets; but the public have been vexed and amused with them long enough, and the good, bad and indifferent are sharing a common fate. An honest chimney-sweeper in Reading, (Penn.) has drawn in his notes and paid specie for them. This laudable example has not been followed, as we believe, in a single instance.

Though our chartered bank notes, in the view of many, must be good—yet we are told that "too much of a good thing" is dangerous; and that the elegant bills of a certain bank in the northern part of the state have been scattered rather too profusely for its credit. Very few of the chartered banks of this state have resumed specie payments; and the last Western Herald asserts, that a person who lately applied at the chartered bank of New Lisbon for specie, was thrust out of doors, notes and all! Musk. Mess.

SINGULAR FACTS.

The north western district of Virginia, from very early times, has been agitated every two years by a political contest for a Representative in Congress.—It has twice been represented by a Federalist; at all other times by a Democrat. Until the election of 1815, the parties never failed to try their strength, and the Federalists, though beaten, were always so near their opponents as to give them concern and apprehension. The election has just commenced in that district: and the Federalists, again determined to exert themselves, prevailed upon Col. James Pindall, of Clarksburg, to become a candidate. Col. Pindall is a distinguished Federalist, and a Lawyer of very superior powers. The election commenced in Wheeling on Monday last, and behold! no candidate appeared in opposition to Col. Pindall! He will of course be elected without opposition. I doubt whether a similar case can be found in the history of Parties.

Wm. Irwin and Isaac Leffler were elected to the house of delegates, without opposition. Ohio Fed.

By Authority.

AN ACT

Relative to suits brought by or against corporations.

Section 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That suits may be brought against corporations by their corporate name, before any court or magistrate of competent jurisdiction, by summons which may be served on the president or other principal officer, or on the cashier, treasurer, secretary or chief clerk of corporation. Provided that no suit shall be sustained on any bank note or notes payable to bearer or order on demand unless demand shall have been first made for payment thereof at their banking house, office or treasury, and in case of non-payment interest shall be recoverable on the same from the time of making such demand.

Section 2. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That if any corporation summoned as aforesaid, shall not appear by their officer, agent or attorney at the time mentioned in said summons, then or at any time afterwards on proof of the service of the summons by the oath or affirmation of the officer serving the same, judgement by default shall be rendered against said corporation for the sum which to the court or magistrate shall appear to be due.

Section 3. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That execution against any corporate body issued by a magistrate, shall be to levy the debt, interest and costs of the goods and chattels of said corporation and execution out of any court shall be to levy as aforesaid of the goods and chattels, lands and tenements of such corporation, and any execution so issued and directed to any sheriff, constable, or other proper officer, shall be served by the said officer going to the banking house or other principal officer, of the corporation at their usual office hours, and demanding of the president or other chief officer, cashier, treasurer, secretary, or chief clerk of said corporation, the amount of said execution with legal costs, and if the same is not forthwith paid in lawful money, or if no person can be found on whom demand may be made as aforesaid, then such sheriff, constable, or other officer is hereby authorised and required to seize any personal property of said corporation sufficient for the debt interest and costs, but if no sufficient personal property can be found as aforesaid, then in case of execution out of any court the levy may be made on the real estate of the corporation, and in case of execution issued by any magistrate as aforesaid, where no sufficient personal estate can be found as aforesaid, the plaintiff may file in the court of common pleas, a transcript of the judgment as in other cases. Provided, that where execution shall be against a banking company, and other personal property cannot be found sufficient for the debt, interest and costs if any current coin of gold, or silver or copper shall be found by such officer, he shall take so much as will satisfy the debt interest and costs.

Section 4. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That in case of appeal, certiorari or writ of error by any corporation, the oath or affirmation required by law shall be made by the president or other chief officer of the corporation, or in his absence by the cashier, treasurer or secretary, and when any corporation shall be sued and shall appeal or take a writ of error, the bail requisite in that case, shall be taken absolute for the payment of the debt, interest and costs on affirmance of the judgment.

Section 5. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That rules of reference and all notices whatsoever may, where a corporation is a party in any suit be served on the president or other principal officer, or cashier or secretary, or chief clerk of such corporation.

Section 6. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That in cases in which a corporation shall be a party in any suit in any court, or before any magistrate, all the proceedings except as regulated by this act shall be the same as directed by law in other similar cases.

Section 7. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That this act shall be in force from and after the first day of July next, and the governor is hereby required to cause this act to be published in two newspapers in Philadelphia, two in Harrisburgh and two in Pittsburgh.

REES HILL,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.
ISAAC WEAVER,
